Phoenix Astronomical Society

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Phoenix, AZ: The Phoenix Astronomical Society (PAS) celebrated the start of their monthly lecture series with a full house of attendees at Paradise valley Community College with an amazing lecture by their Vice President Mark Johnston. Mark recently was invited to Chile to visit some of that country's largest telescopes. Mark's lecture with his videos and images reminded the audience that astronomy is everywhere, and that the general population reaps the benefits of astronomy through new technology and discoveries made by this science.

PAS conducts monthly lectures, and special star viewing events around the valley. For more information on their schedule go to: www.pasaz.org

The Phoenix Astronomical Society is a 501(c)(3) registered Public Charity. Donations and gifts are tax deductible.

Our members are amateur and professional astronomers, teachers, learners, oldsters, and youngsters. Founded in 1948, we are interested in telescopes, binoculars, astrophotography, planetaria, astronautics, sky lore, astrogeology, NASA, celestial navigation, and all astronomy-related topics.
